Anxiety Felt in Mexico Over
Showing Revolutionists May Make on Day Set for the Revolt.

Washington, June 30—In a dispatch to General Alsworth, the adjutant general of the army, today, Brigadier General Myer, commanding the Department of Texas, acknowledged the receipt of orders to send troops to the Mexican border, and will take steps at once to prevent revolutionary activities.

The troops were sent as the result of an official request from the Mexican embassy.

Mexico City, June 30—The positive information from Washington that United States troops are to patrol the Rio Grande border and lack of definite news regarding serious fighting during the last 12 hours have done much to quiet the apprehension among officials and citizens alike over the threatened general uprising. However, there is anxiety over the showing the revolutionists may make tomorrow, the day set for the revolt.

The sending of United States troops to the border is regarded here as the answer to reports that American mining interests are jeopardized. This move is also considered the greatest check to the proposed revolt of any step yet taken. The great fear has been that the miners would join the uprising. Today representations are being made that the American troops are being massed on the river for a rush into Mexico at the slightest sign of a miners' revolt.

So far as is known here one slight brush occurred yesterday. Federal troops ran down an exhausted party of insurgents, 60 miles from Las Vegas. Reports estimate the dead and wounded between 20 and 60.

At least 3,000 Mexican soldiers are now in the threatened territory. With orders to take no prisoners and to exterminate the rebels except ringleaders, who are to be held for trial, it is believed the district will be cleared of the insurgents within a few days.

Austin, Tex., June 30—Under orders from the war department the soldiers of Fort Sam Houston, Fort Bliss and Fort Clark are holding themselves in readiness to proceed to the Texas towns along the Rio Grande to aid in suppressing the incipient rebellion in Mexico.

Already a number of troops have gone to Del Rio, El Paso and one or two other points, but their services have not as yet been needed.

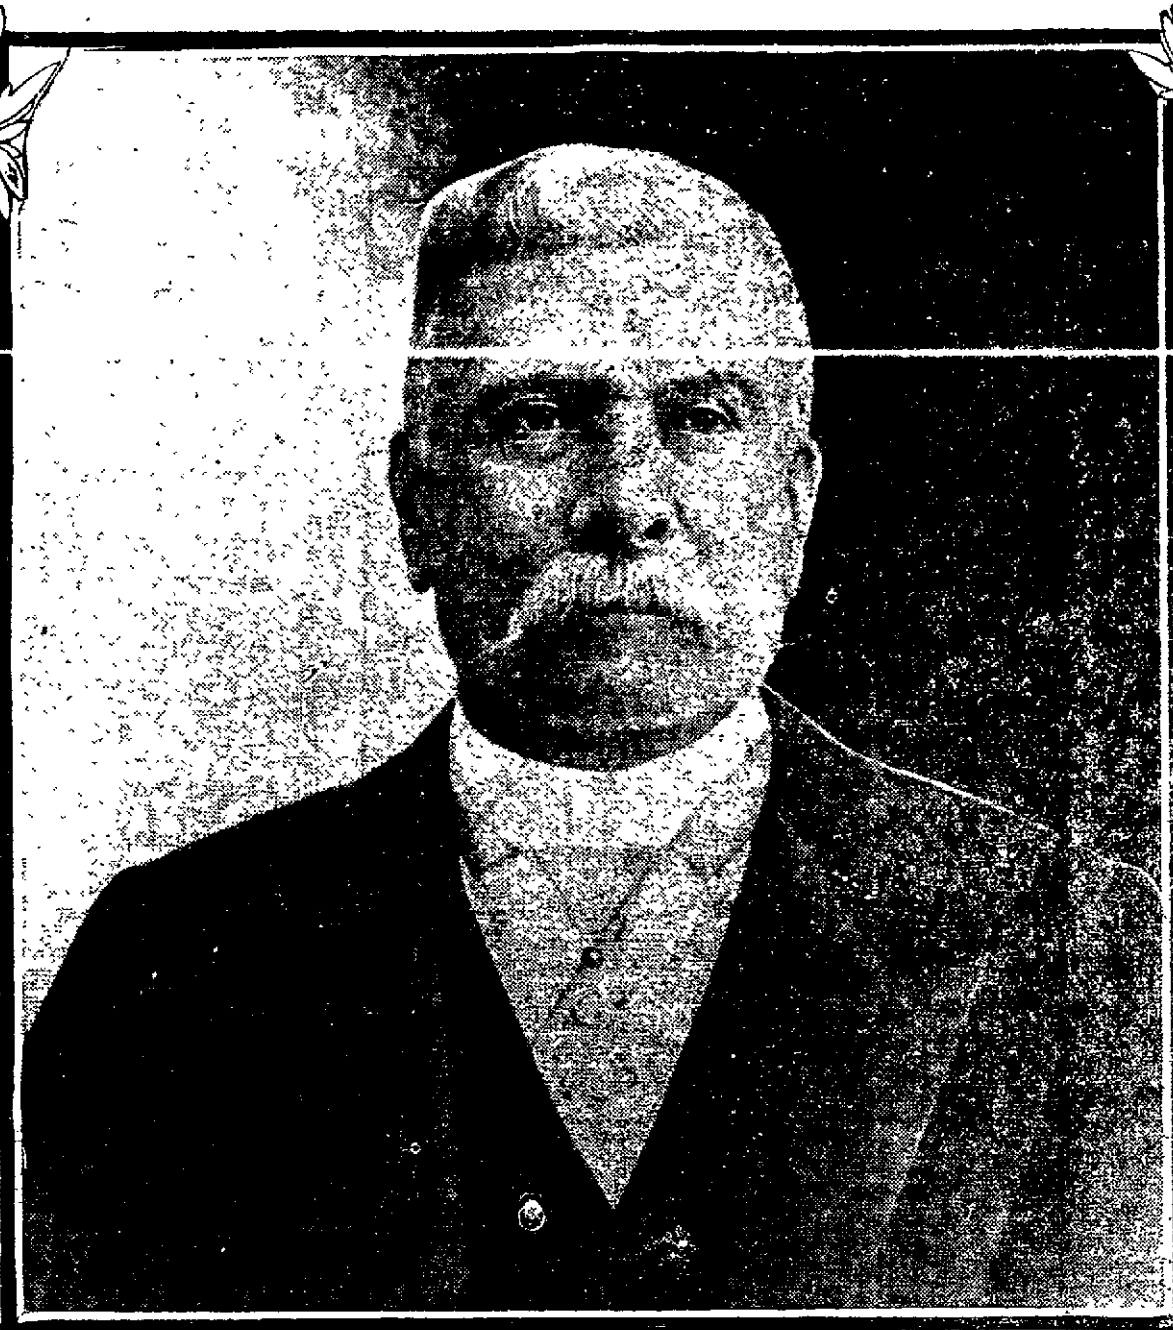

Brigadier General A. L. Myer, commander of the department of Texas, is superintending the movements of the troops.

Torreon, Mex., June 30—The threatened disaffection of governor troops has not taken place. Within a radius of 75 miles of Torreon, 3,000 Mexican soldiers are in the field and searching for the revolutionists.

The only serious engagement reported between the soldiers and revolutionists took place 60 miles northwest of Las Vacas by the band that attacked Las Vacas and a detachment of troops that left here Sunday.

After a half hour's fight the revolutionists were completely scattered. A score of them are reported to have been slain. Wherever groups of revolutionists are encountered no quarter is shown. The Mexican government has offered $100 reward for every revolutionist, dead or alive.

Suspects are arrested. Forty such suspects arrested at various points on the Mexican side of the Rio Grande, were brought to Torreon last evening. Del Rio, June 30—Fearing that the Mexican revolutionists arrested on the Texas side of the Rio Grande would not be extradited, a company of Mexican officers, disguised as peons, crossed into Texas and began the pur-

President Diaz, who seeks the aid of the United States to catch raiders who cross the Rio Grande, is a Mexican general and statesman. He served as a soldier in the war with the United States in 1847 and led a battalion in 1854 against Santa Anna. He became president of Mexico in 1877, was succeeded by Gonzales in 1880, and was again elected in 1884 and re-elected in 1888 and 1892, and after the changing of the constitution has served continuously as chief executive.

suit of a number of revolutionists. They were themselves suspected of being revolutionists and were captured by United States customs officers. On being brought to Del Rio the identity of the arrested men was established. They were released but warned not to repeat their performance. Their idea was to hustle the revolutionists that fell into their hands across the river before the American authorities could interfere.

ANNUAL

Convention of National Educational Association

DELEGATES SWARM CITY

Thousands of Cleveland
Homes Thrown Open to the Visitors

Varied Program is Carried Out and Colored Girl Wins the Spelling Contest.

Cleveland, June 30—The interest in today's proceedings in the convention of the National Educational Association centered in the fight of the American Book company, known as the Book Trust to defeat Pres. W. O. Thompson of the Ohio State university, for the presidency of the association. The election will take place tomorrow. The Book Trust has two candidates in the field.

The American Book company has engaged 250 rooms in the principal hotels. These rooms were reserved three months ago for the week of the National Educational Association's convention. Many delegates who arrived late Monday, found it impossible to get quarters in the hotels without accepting the hospitality of the trust.

The trust is trying to control the politics of the association. It has kept Thompson out of the place before. Many agents of the company are at the hotels working among the teachers. The Book Trust wants to dictate the election of the principal officers of the association because these will in turn appoint subordinate officers and will appoint many more educators to committees and places on future programs.

Cleveland, June 30—The largest and most varied program in the history of the National Educational association marked the opening of the 46th annual convention of the organization. Thousands of delegates were kept busy taking part in the day's program. The streets and buildings are gaily decorated. It was a day of bustling for the transportation companies as well as the pedagogues. A special depot was constructed to care for the baggage. Thousands of Cleveland homes were thrown open to entertain the visitors. Hotels, restaurants and boarding houses are reaping a harvest.

The session was a meeting of the national council. This was followed by a meeting of the directors where financial reports were made and resolutions adopted. The committee on appropriations and investigation proposed that their work be dropped, owing to the general financial condition of the association and the change in the policy of the railways throughout the country in the matter of passenger rates. The committee recommends that congress be urged to make appropriations and take up the work of educational investigation under the government bureau of education.

One of the interesting features of the program Monday was a spelling contest between eighth grade pupils, in which a team of 15 representatives of each of four cities entered. New Orleans and Erie, Pa., accepted the challenge. First, there was a written contest of 100 words and then oral spelling of about 250 words. Cleveland won with a total of only 38 errors. New Orleans third with 66, and Erie fourth with 85.

Two girls, Mae Thursby of Pittsburg and Mary Bolden of Cleveland had perfect scores. Miss Bolden is colored. When her record was announced she received repeated cheers from all parts of the big theatre.

An exhibition by the United States government in the education of Indian children was given for the benefit of the visiting teachers.

The active delegates met in their respective headquarters at 3:30 p. m. and selected candidates for the nominating committee which will meet Wednesday morning to nominate a board of directors. The new directors will organize Thursday evening.

"The Scarcity of Teachers" was the subject that occupied the attention of the national council. I. C. McNeal, chairman of the committee on invitations, delivered a report in which he showed that instructors are underpaid. "Labor drifts from one occupation to another, according to the relative inducements offered in each."

"Why are teachers scarce? Because they can get better wages by drifting into other lines of work." The report argued that the requirements at teachers' examinations should not be lowered.

The following three facts were given as the cause of a scarcity of teachers by David Pelly, president of the Normal University of Illinois: The raise of the standard of qualification, without sufficient revenue to pay for the efforts of the higher class of teachers resulting; the insecure tenure of office during the period of proficiency, and the lack of pension provisions for incapacitated teachers.

At the meeting of the board of directors resolutions were adopted in which regret was expressed for the illness of Edwin G. Cooley, superintendent of schools of Chicago, president of the association, who is unable to attend the convention.

POISON

Alleged to Have Been Placed in Physician's Ale

YOUNG MAN SUSPECTED

Sent by Relative of Person Who Died While in Doctor's Care

Brooded Over Trouble and Did Not Want Family History
Exposed in Court.

Philadelphia, June 30—The laying bare of a most sensational murder is promised by the authorities in the case of Dr. William H. Wilson of this city, who died at his home Friday night, after drinking a portion of a bottle of ale, which had been sent him. An autopsy performed by the coroner's physician and an examination made of the viscera taken from the body yesterday, according to the coroner, proves conclusively that Dr. Wilson died of cyanide of potassium poisoning.

The ale came to the physician by express and in the mail the same day he received a letter, in typewritten form purporting to have been sent by the Heier-Schemm Brewing company of this city, informing him that a sample bottle of ale had been sent to him for trial. Investigation showed according to the police, that Schemm brews no ale, and that the company never sent any such letter as that received by the physician.

Wilson had scarcely swallowed half a glass of the beverage when he was seized with convulsions and fell to the floor. It is declared that he immediately realized that he was the victim of poisoning, either by mistake or design, for in his agony he requested his wife, who had not yet touched her portion of the ale, to keep that which was left, as it did not taste right.

That was the last thing he was able to say and he died before the hospital was reached.

Though Dr. Wilson had been living for more than 12 years in the house where he drank the fatal potion, he never put out a physician's sign and was not known in a general sense as a practitioner. Withal he had a large clientele, made up mostly, the police assert, of prominent women.

The police officials have learned they say, that Dr. Wilson attended during a fatal illness a member of the family of a young man who will be charged with being the poisoner.

The death, it is alleged, caused the young man to brood until he could no longer contain himself, when he sought to end the physician's practices by sending him poison rather than have his family history exposed in court.

This is the remarkable case which the police have unearthed. How soon the authorities will be ready to act in the case they will not say, nor will they make public any names in connection with the matter.

Philadelphia, June 30—The arrest of a young man and a woman, rich and prominent in society circles here, is expected today as the sequel to the poisoning by cyanide of potassium of Dr. Wm. H. Wilson, who died after drinking part of a bottle of ale sent to him by express.

The two young persons about whom the police have woven an almost complete fabric of evidence are brother and sister. Dr. Wilson it is believed, was the operator on another sister who died, and her relatives, crazed by grief, yet still dreading the scandal that would follow the prosecution of the physician, are believed to have determined on vengeance by a secret method which killed the man they hated. Arrests are expected to develop a big scandal. Dr. Wilson was known to the police as a doctor who would take long chances to prevent scandal if the pay was big enough. The police have found from the express company that the young man and woman sent the poisoned package.

SWELL FOR THE HOBOS.

Woman's World

MME. MIDZUNO.

Japanese Consul's Wife Tells How Matches Are Made in Mikado's Land. "Americans fall in love and then marry; the Japanese marry and then fall in love."

This is the statement of the wife of Kokikochi Midzuno, the Japanese consul general. She recently arrived from her native land and is living at present at the Barnard, 106 Central Park West, New York city.

"Why do American women tire of their husbands?" she asked as she brewed tea and ordered cake.

"American women," she said, "ought to stop and think of one of our old songs. The words of it run like this: 'I want to live to be ninety-nine years, and you must live to be a hundred, so that we may be happy while our hair grows gray.'"

"Marriage is safer in Japan. Experienced people arrange it. In the great wisdom of our parents these marriages are brought about. A young man desires to marry a girl. Her father arranges a meeting, and the two young persons are introduced. Maybe they do not love at first, but after awhile a great and tender affection steals upon them. Wives in Japan are content with their husbands for years and years.

"Too many husbands is not a happy thing," she declared. "The American women should be more content and not crave so much excitement. They should have wise people to choose for them their mates and not go so suddenly into matrimony. To love all before marriage and leave no happiness for the years to come, after that is not a good thing."

Kokikochi Midzuno is a reserved and grave man, with more than an ordinary sense of humor.

"Our English," he said, "is more academic than idiomatic. We understand English with our eyes long before we know it through our ears."

Quaint Dental Wisdom.

In every age writers have occupied themselves with dental hygiene, and an old writer at the end of the sixteenth century quaintly condenses dental wisdom as follows:

"If you want to guard the teeth against all accidents, external as well as internal, to keep them beautiful and useful to the end of a long life, take care not to put into the mouth anything too hot or too cold.

"Do not eat meat that is hard or difficult to digest.

"Do not drink any liquor with efferecing qualities.

"Do not eat sweet or sticky things, nor break with the teeth anything that is hard, nor drink wine or water too cold, as many do during the heat of summer. Avoid soups that are too hot.

"After you have eaten, wash the mouth immediately with some harsh or rough wine to prevent decay. When you eat, do so on both sides of the mouth. Do not favor one side more than the other.

"Figs, sugar and other things which are inclined to soften or try the teeth are bad and unwholesome."

There is one golden rule that says, "After eating, rinse the mouth," and another, "Brush the teeth night and morning."

Dainty women do this three and four times a day. It becomes second nature with them.

In brushing, do not use too large a brush or too stiff bristles. See that the surface of the brush is well rounded, that it may reach every corner of the mouth.

The ideal way to brush is from the gum toward the end of the tooth, downward for the upper jaw and upward for the lower. In brushing lengthwise of the entire row of teeth there is danger of irritating the tender gums.

The woman who cares for immaculate teeth will every twenty-four hours pass through the interstices a thread of silk, made for the purpose, to remove every last particle of food.

The Invalid's Bedroom.

The phantasies of the wall paper helped out by a sick brain have been obliterated in one residence whose occupant has been through a long and tedious course of illness and unable to be moved for many weeks. Screens of plain dull green denim were made by one of the family and hung from the picture rail. Each is the width of the material and long enough to cover the wall, the top and bottom each having a latch run into the hem to keep them straight. The top is finished with a wire by which to hang it. Only the ends of two sides and a corner needed the screens, as the patient faces only in those directions. Only a person who has been ill for a long time in one room can appreciate the misery that the cracks on the wall and the figures in the paper can give. A change of the pictures in the room without any previous mention to the sick person in it will sometimes be almost if not quite equal to a change from the room to another apartment. The same picture day after day comes to be a monotony hard to be borne by one who is very weak and nervous. It is often in severe illness better to take down all the pictures not only because of their monotony, but because they gather dust. The fewer things in a sickroom the better for patient and nurse.

Useful Vegetables.

Prominent specialists claim that spinach is the most precious of vegetables on account of its medicinal and strengthening properties. Its emollient and laxative virtues, owing probably to the salt of potash it contains, have long been known. It is excellent for the liver and as a consequence freshens the complexion.

The chemist Bunge has proved that spinach and the yolk of an egg are proportionately richer in digestible and assimilable iron than many remedies. The great value and growing importance are shown in the fact that spinach is already an active ingredient in several new and valuable tonics.

Onions, it is maintained by experts, are almost the best nerve known. They are most useful in cases of nervous prostration and will greatly assist in giving tone to the system.

They are useful in cases of coughs, colds and influenza. Eaten every other day they soon have a general clearing and clearing effect on the complexion.

Balzac and the Thief.

A story, said to be new, of Balzac is related by a French contemporary. A burglar gained admission to Balzac's house and was soon at work by the light of the moon at the lock of the secretaire in the novelist's chamber. Balzac was asleep at the time, but the movements of the intruder aroused him. The burglar, who was working most industriously, paused. A strident laugh arrested his operations, and he beheld by the moonlight the novelist sitting up in bed, his sides aching with laughter.

"What is it that makes you merry?" demanded the burglar.

"I laugh," replied the author of "Pere Goriot," "to think that you should come in the night without a lantern to search my secretaire for money when I can never find any there in broad daylight."

A Time Saving Device.

If you like to change your dress shields frequently, but dislike the time it takes, try this method:

Sew on each end of the shield one half of a dress snap and on your corset cover, to correspond, the other half. When you want to wear a fresh pair of shields all you have to do is to "snap" them in place. It is as quickly and easily done as fastening your glove. They stay as firmly as though sewed, and they do not rust or tear out as when pinned. Always get your shields of one size, so that any pair of shields will fit any corset cover. After you have the dress snaps once served in your trouble of changing shields is ended. It will take little more time than getting a fresh handkerchief.

Scent in Ribbon Bows.

Scented ribbon bows to be worn at night are the newest things in Paris. Between two layers of ribbon is placed a sandwiching of scented wadding. The hair is confined loosely with the ribbon, which not only perfumes the hair, but brings pleasant dreams to the wearer, say sentimental maids. The high wired lace stock is made a holder of sachet powder. The stock has a rim of velvet. Between this and the lace there is an interlining of chiffon, and within this is the perfumed dust.

Craving For Sympathy.

Some nervous, highly strung wives cultivate a craving for sympathy and an astonishing amount of self pity when really there is nothing in the world for them to be sorry about.

It is nice to know that husbands and friends are ready to sympathize with us in our joys and sorrows, but sympathy is good only in small doses.

Too much of it takes the strength and backbone out of character, just as living in heated rooms and sleeping on feather beds weaken the body.

An Excellent Hair Wash.

An excellent hair wash is to take one ounce of borax and one ounce of powdered camphor and dissolve in a pint of boiling water added to cold water in a bowl. The camphor will form into lumps, but a sufficient amount will dissolve. This will strengthen the hair and preserve the color.

To prevent raisins or currants in cake from dropping to the bottom of the pan first put a little of the dough into the pan and then put in the cake mixture to which the fruit, well floured, has been added.

Never use soda for washing china that has any gilding on it, for the soda will in time surely remove it all. Instead of soda use a little soap. That has no bad effect.

A GOOD CHANCE FOR YOUNG MAN IN THIS COUNTY

Congressman Ashbrook Receives Letter Concerning an Appointment to Be Made.

Johnstown, O., June 30.—Congressman Ashbrook is just in receipt of the following letter from Major General Elliott, which explains itself:

"I have the honor to inform you that as the result of recent legislation there now exist in the U. S. Marine Corps fifty seven (57) vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant. It is desired to fill these vacancies by the appointment of young men between the ages of 21 and 27, sound in body in every particular, minimum height five feet six inches, and for (his) height weight not less than 132 pounds, of good moral standing in the community, and with such a degree of education that they can fill mentally the requirements set forth in the enclosed papers. Regulations and executive order require that the candidates shall fill mentally, physically and morally the requirements as stated.

"This letter is written because so many young men have failed to come up to the required standard that it is difficult to fill the vacancies. If you have, in your district, a young man of sufficient education to prepare himself mentally by October 15, 1908, and will have him write to this office, we will gladly put ourselves in communication with him and if it is thought that he can pass the examination successfully, we will use every endeavor with the secretary of the navy to have him receive permission to be examined for appointment as a second lieutenant in the Corps.

"It will be useless for young men with an education not up to the requirements to make the attempt to enter, as it would simply be an expense to them as well as a great disappointment.

"The pay for a second lieutenant on entering the Corps is $1700.00 per annum. Ver respectfully,

"G. F. ELLIOTT,"

Those desiring to compete for the position should write, telephone or telegraph Hon. Wm. A. Ashbrook, Johnstown, O.

CAPT. F. G. STEELE

Interviewed by Cleveland Daily Advertiser That He Was Responsible For Dick's Military Training.

Captain F. G. Steele, teacher of drawing and penmanship down at Newark for the last 16 years, now being the N. E. A. dollars, avers that he was the first man to say: "For-r-d march!" and such things to Major General Charles Dick, who, as one may recall, is also Senator Dick, says Tuesday's Cleveland Plain Dealer. Steele says he is the man who first held the military bug up and let it buzz close to the Dick tympanum. And he was captain of the company in which Dick did his first drilling. When Captain Steele took hold of Dick he didn't know the difference between a battalion and a forced march. Up to then he had never even thought of things military.

Captain Steele succeeded Dick as bookkeeper in an Akron establishment along in 1885 or 1886. Dick had opened a feed store and was just beginning to dabble in politics a wee little bit. It was not long after that Dick landed the county auditorship, has first political office.

Steele, who had fought all through the war and who even yet can hear the roar of the cannon when all is still, and see the glitter of bayonets with his eyes closed, was captain of the Akron rifle corps, a private military organization. "One day he whispered to Dick that if he was thinking of getting into politics it might help him a lot to acquire a knowledge of military affairs. Dick thought so, too, and accepted a place as first sergeant in Steele's company.

Not long after that Dick became lieutenant in Co. B of the Eighth Ohio regiment, an Akron company. The company was almost to the point of being disbanded by the state for want of membership, and Steele says he filled out the lists by persuading some of the members of the rifle corps to quit that organization and go over to Co. B.

Thus Dick got his start in military affairs. Steele says he sort of had a hunch that Dick would give him an inspectorship or something after he got to be major general, but up to the hour he left home to catch his train for Cleveland he had not received any such commission.

Dog Still Going.

Undertaker James A. McGonagle had an awful time with a dog Monday evening. Mr. McGonagle is a volunteer member of Newark's unorganized band of mercy and believes in sending those puppies to dog heaven whose appearances fail to bespeak for them a long and happy life among their canine brethren. The dog in question, stiff, staggering and lean, crawled under the undertaker's house to die. Two policemen came along to help it and one was forced to crawl under the house to get a "bead on the animal," and then shot and missed. The dog ran! So did the officers. At the latest reports they had not succeeded in catching or dispatching the miserable doggie.

MAYOR ATHERTON

Determined to Break Up Practice of Street Loafers Insulting Respectable Women.

Insults to women on the streets of Newark are becoming every day occurrences and more than one insolent street loafer has been made to answer for his conduct within the past couple of weeks.

Mayor Atherton has just issued special instructions to the police and plain clothes men are making a special effort to stop the practice of deliberately insulting respectable women whose duties cause them to pass public places. It is a difficult matter for the police to get hold of such offenders because even the lowest degenerate knows the meaning of brass buttons and a police badge. However, Mayor Atherton stated Monday night that the practice will be stopped and every offender brought before him on such a charge will be punished to the limit of the law.

A number of Newark women have prepared themselves for such offenders and some of them may be surprised on making further advances of this nature.

P. Vanfossen and son Harry, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Vanfossen, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Northup, Uncle Jacob Bowers and Mrs. Rebecca Hisey.

A Tonic for Debility

A condition of general debility, aside from its discomforts, is dangerous, for it is an invitation to every acute disease we meet.

Mr. John F. Williams, of 911 Lincoln St., Anderson, Ind., says: "I was run down and suffered a great deal from sick headaches and pains in the back. My stomach was weak, appetite poor and complexion sallow. I had night-sweats, which so weakened me, that I had little interest in my work. I tried several doctors but got no better and remained in this condition until I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and started to take them. I got so much relief from the first few boxes that I used them until I was entirely cured."

BUSINESS AND THE EMPTY DINNER PAIL

An eastern business man in writing to a western friend advising him to vote for Taft for President, makes the claim that his election will cause an improvement to business.

But who has been playing all this mischief with business that makes improvement necessary?

In other words, who has over-turned and emptied the full dinner pail?

Roosevelt has ruled as President the past seven years and Roosevelt has dictated the nomination of Taft.

Then how can there be any business improvement by Taft's election?

How can the dinner pail be filled by the same people that caused it to be emptied?

The Standard of Honor of the Two Presidents.

(Youngstown Vindicator.)

Seldom, if ever, has a President of the United States received such a deserved rebuke as President Roosevelt received last week at the hands of President Eliot of Harvard college.

Two Harvard students, you remember, who happened to be members of boat crews which were to row against Yale crews last week, were suspended from college and so must leave the crews because one of them, in violation of the rules of the college, carried away from the library a reference book and when accused gave a fictitious name. His comrade attempted to shield his friend in the deceit.

President Roosevelt with his irresistible disposition to meddle in what does not concern him, sent the following telegram to President Eliot:

White House, Washington, D. C. President C. W. Eliot, Cambridge:— "Is it not possible, and would it not be more fitting and just, to substitute another punishment for Fish and Morgan, if, as it is stated, they merely took away a book which they were permitted to use in the library. It seems to us, and we feel sure to the great body of graduates, it is unfair and unnecessary to make all of us suffer for an affair of this kind for which some other punishment might surely be found."

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

To this President Eliot promptly replied:

President Roosevelt, White House, Washington, D. C.:— "Each man did a dishonorable thing. One violated in his private interest, and in a crooked way, a rule made in the common interest; while the other gave a false name and did not take subsequent opportunity to give his own. The least possible punishment was putting them on probation; but that drops them from the crews. A KEEN AND SURE SENSE OF HONOR BEING THE FINEST RESULT OF COLLEGE LIFE, I THINK THE COLLEGE AND GRADUATES SHOULD CONDEMN EFFECTIVELY DISHONORABLE CONDUCT. THE COLLEGE SHOULD ALSO TEACH THAT ONE MUST NEVER DO SCURVY THINGS IN THE SUPPOSED INTEREST OR FOR THE PLEASURE OF OTHERS."

CHARLES W. ELIOT.

Incidentally how sharp is the contrast thus shown to be between the standard of honor "keen and sure" of the university president and that of the President of the United States—and no man in public life has "preached" so much of "honor" as President Roosevelt has. No one would have thought that having been a student under President Eliot even Mr. Roosevelt would have been seen to thrust his head, as he did, into the mouth of the Old Lion who has determined the standard for American education, and so let us hope for American honor for now a full generation.

Seeing that his duty required it President Eliot was just as free to rebuke President Roosevelt he would have been to rebuke a freshman. All of which is refreshing and should prove of value to President Roosevelt and to the country—especially to the college youth of the country. And Harvard won the boat race, notwithstanding.

AUDITORIUM.

Despite the bad weather last night a good house was attracted to the Auditorium by the splendid program offered and by the voting contest now going on to give some young lady a free week's vacation. Miss Kate Borch now stands No. 1 with 70 votes. Miss Richmond has 63, Miss Clara Roney ties her with 63, Miss Moore 28, others 21 down to L. A. complete list is shown at the Auditorium. Some spirited voting will probably take place tonight, and the whole list may be changed tomorrow. The friends of the young ladies should work hard now and keep their favorite at the top. This vacation trip is absolutely free, does not cost those voting nor the luck clerk a cent. What could be more pleasant than a trip to beautiful Buckeye Lake, with the best room in the new Mission hotel, boat rides, good meals and everything free?

IDEWILDE PARK.

The Grahame Stock Company opened its annual engagement at Idewilde on Sunday last and easily retained its former reputation of being the favorite stock company visiting this popular resort. Lillian Dean and Ferdinand Grahame are still leading a strong young company, while the vaudeville element contains clever singing and dancing acts, musical and magic acts, etc. The plays for this, the first of the five weeks' engagement, are The Fatal Diamond, The Poisoner, and Cowslip Farm. Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given.

It is the purest natural mineral water we have ever examined. It is entirely free from organic matter, or any other evidence of contamination. Those who can obtain their supply from such a water as this are certainly to be congratulated. We judge this is the extent of the examination you wished considering that we made a full mineral analysis some months ago.

RAILWAY AFFAIRS

Mr. Arthur J. Irwin of the chief train dispatcher's office, left Sunday for Mr. Clemens, Mich., where he will enjoy a two weeks' vacation and rest.

J. R. Geaney, superintendent of the D. & O. car service, was in the city a short time Monday, en route to Columbus.

It is noted that local stop employees will be put on better time next month. The news will come as a pleasant surprise to the employees.

Passenger traffic on local railroads is picking up some, showing a slight increase over last month, and it is hoped that it will continue so until the usual summer standard is reached or exceeded.

Engines 883 and 2203 are out of the erecting shop, and are about ready for through service. They have been going through a breaking in process on the C. & N. division for the past week.

Passenger traffic, also freight traffic was quite heavy Sunday, with the excursion business and the regular trains.

The freight business was notably improved, three more cabooses being in action, and three more engines out of white lead. Vegetables and stock shipments on the Pennsylvania are getting heavier too, so the good times are apparently at hand.

Engine 889, which turned over at Haines' switch a few days ago, is out today, all rebuilt and undergoing a breaking in. This is rapid work as there was considerable damage done.

The planks on the B. & O. tracks at the Second street crossing are in bad shape. No. ones would be in order to replace the old ones.

A new interurban station, to cost half a million dollars, is being projected for Dayton by the Schoepf interests, and other lines entering that city.

W. O. Johnson has been selected to succeed W. I. Robinson as general baggage agent of the B. & O. S. W., according to advices received at headquarters here. Mr. Robinson's death occurred June 9.

Local railroad men in speaking of traffic on the lines entering Newark, said that it had been showing much improvement in the last two weeks, and they were certain that now the bottom had been touched in traffic conditions, and from now on there would be a gradual betterment.

Conductors Honest.

Columbus, O., June 30.—On behalf of the Ohio Railroad Commission, the members of which participated in the recent meeting of railway commissions in Chicago, H. D. Mannington, secretary, has issued a statement denying the report sent out at the time that one of the subjects discussed was "the dishonesty of the railroad conductors."

"The conductors are men of as high character, honesty and integrity as any other class of men in this country," Secretary Mannington says, "and need no defense from this commission or anyone else."

Putting Men to Work.

A press telegram from Pittsburg says that it is estimated there that not less than 5,000 men have been returned to work by the railroads of western Pennsylvania during the past week. Daily increases in the number of men employed by the railroads entering Pittsburg are being reported.

Bids for both passenger and freight locomotives and rolling stock are being advertised. The tonnage is gaining and a steady return to normal conditions is indicated on every hand.

Fifty hundred men were put to work in the shops of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroad at Duquesne, Pa., North of that point, along the line of way of the Erie railroad, 2,000 men are at work ballasting, replacing ties and laying rails in anticipation of a heavy traffic. By the same road, bids for 15 engines of the heavy Pacific type have been requested.

No More Transportation Exchange.

Persons who are accustomed to taking trips up the lakes in the summer may possibly be somewhat affected by a new ruling that has been made by the interstate commerce commission. It is to the effect that no steamship companies may receive free transportation in exchange for Interchange of free transportation between steamship companies and railroads in this territory is to come to an end. This is to be the latest extension of the anti-pass policy. A ruling of the interstate commerce commission has already forced western roads to cancel all passes issued to representatives of steamship companies. Other parts of the country will no doubt follow.

"Enforcement of the anti-pass regulations has become stricter and stricter. The commission has just called attention of the carriers to remove ways in which the act is being violated, such as giving free trips to the wives of railroad surgeons or claim agents. It has also ordered that all records of passes issued be kept for a period of five years."

SECOND

SEVERE STORM OF THE SUMMER SEASON VISITS THIS CITY ON MONDAY.

Wind Does Much Damage, Trees Being
Uprooted and Buildings
Unroofed.

The second of the season's worst wind and rain storms, and said to be even a worse storm than that of a few days ago, which was pronounced the most severe in years, swept over Newark Monday afternoon about 3 o'clock, uprooting trees, unroofing buildings, and scattering debris about the streets. The wind which blew a fierce gale of probably fifty miles an hour was accompanied by a downpour of rain that cast a shadow over any previous attempts of the rain man in this locality.

The Board of Public Service was kept busy all afternoon getting fallen trees removed, and taking care of the reports of complaining citizens whose property had been interfered with by the storm. Mr. Taylor, of the board, stated Tuesday that yesterday's storm probably did more damage in the way of destroying trees and property than any storm that has visited the city in years.

A curious thing about the rain and wind storm was that places only a few miles distant from Newark got no effect from it. In Lancaster two ball games were played and excellent weather conditions prevailed, while at Columbus the day was bright and pleasant.

In the country about Newark considerable damage was done, many out-buildings being either blown over or unroofed. Trees were uprooted by the hundreds, and in the city, a man named Jackson, narrowly escaped death under a falling tree at the corner of Maholm and West Main streets. The big tree was lifted out by its roots as the man stood under it for shelter and fell across the street so near to him that one of the limbs struck him on the shoulder resulting in a painful bruise.

D. C. Criss, of Criss Bros. & Jones, undertakers, also had a narrow escape. When the wind raised, Mr. Criss stepped out of his place of business on South Third street to raise the awning. The wind collected under the awning before he could pull it up and tore loose one of the iron braces which swung around and inflicted an ugly deep scalp wound. The injury was properly dressed and Mr. Criss is noting no ill effects from it.

Trees were blown down at the corner of Sixth and Main streets and at Pine and Maholm in West Newark, and at a number of open points in East Newark. The Public Square and the court house park looked like a trimming bee had been carried on, as the park was full of huge branches and limbs. From Harrison to Pataskala streets, on South Fourth, it was almost impossible to get through for the debris. A large tree in front of the R. P. Ford property on Granville street, near Fifth, fell directly across the street completely blocking traffic until it was removed. The tree was a monster maple and was taken out roots and all.

The brick structure at the corner of Eleventh and West Main came near collapsing, as it was right in the line of a direct wind which came sweeping down Union streets. The building was badly shaken and several bricks torn off the top, but fortunately the damage was slight, for, had the structure fallen, it would have doubtlessly cost many lives as several persons were seeking shelter from the storm beneath its roof.

The Lansing block suffered from the storm, by having a big portion of the roofing torn loose and rolled up tightly, while a young men's club room in the west side of the building was some what damaged by rain and dust.

In the country much damage is known to have resulted which has not been reported. Several farmers were engaged in hauling in their hay when the storm struck them. One man south of the city a few miles had just succeeded in getting a big wagon load of hay ready to haul to his barn and believed he could get it in before the storm came, but he failed. The wind struck the hay wagon and distributed it as gracefully over the field as if it had never been raked.

One of the most curious freaks of the storm was that of carrying the straw hat of Paul McGinnis from Church and Fifth streets clear across the canal feeder on East Church, near Front, on across the North Fork of the Licking to a point about half way between the creek and Buena Vista street. How the hat ever travelled all of that distance, over half a mile, crossing two streams of water, without getting lost in the creek or canal feeder, is a puzzle, but it is believed that the hat either followed the direction of the air currents, being carried across the bridges in that way, or else some body picked it up and carried it for a time, but not seeing the owner throw it down the embankment on Indiana street across the bridge. McGinnis is a teamster and wore a broad brimmed light weight straw sombrero. When he found that it was in good condition and he recognized it by his initials written in it with indelible ink.

Many telephones were put out of commission and light and telegraph wires were blown down and torn loose by falling limbs. A wire at the fire alarm box on South Fourth and Pataskala streets became entangled and rung one tap on the alarm at Central Fire station, but repairs were soon made and the system was thoroughly gone over and shown to be intact by the time the storm subsided.

Rain at Lima.

It was something that the Lankers did not expect, that losing one game and barely winning the second from Tom Quailey who pitched them both, but whether they anticipated the fact or not, the fact nevertheless remains. They just nosed the second one out when Quailey heaved wild.

The man that came from Lima was in the finest kind of trim and in the first game he allowed but three hits. The Lankers were on the anxious seat from the time he threw the first ball which clipped the pan.

The first game ran for 10 innings, with both sides making errors, but the three by Newark were not costly. An error of Lancaster sent the first Molder, Murray, across, and as the home team couldn't find Quailey, the first game went to Newark. The successful heaver of the first game was in the finest kind of trim and when Newark took the field for the second game he was again on the mound.

He held the home club tight this time as far as hitting was concerned, and he duplicated his effort of the previous game by allowing three hits. He feided his position in classy style, having ten chances and but one error. Errors by Williams combined with a wild heave of his, lost the second game for the Newark squad, and the game was called in the seventh inning.

In the first game Snyder covered much territory in the left garden, and pulled in four flies. Locke, in right, also had two putouts, but Abbott who played in middle field, did not have a chance. Snyder laid down a pretty sacrifice hit and both Snyder and Murray stole bases on Piper.

In the second game the fielders had five putouts to their credit, Abbott getting three of them. The playing of the Molders rather surprised the Lankville fans, for they were confident of taking at least three out of the games played, and the work of the Molders in breaking even while on the Lancaster grounds, was entirely unexpected.

The Molders are going along in great shape just at the present time, and are playing at nearer their regular form than they have all season. With a little strengthening the team would be one of the strongest bidders in the present highly exciting race of the Ohio State league.

The boys open a Mansfield today for a series of three games and while in Tiger town they should take at least two out of the three games. From Mansfield they jump to Portsmouth, where some hard fighting may be expected, for the bunch of Eddie Ransick are playing at top speed just now.

Newark has never played in Portsmouth and the fans of that club are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the Molders whose reputation as fast ball hustlers have preceded them. The fans are all crazy as this is the first time they have ever had professional ball in the town, and with about weather large crowds should see the games.

George Hueffner, who came down from the Lake Shore league will probably not wear a Newark uniform this year, for he is shortly to be married.

EVEN BREAKS

The strikeout record of Moore made in Sunday's game at Lancaster has caused all kinds of comment from over the circuit. When Frank struck out the 17 men he broke the cage record made by Bailey of Mansfield a short time ago, when the Doc struck out 14 men. Price formerly held the record with 13 strike outs to his credit.

Several times in the game Sunday the bases were full, but each time Moore began whisking them over and at every sign of the game the Lankers were at his mercy. Thirteen of them died on bases.

Manager O'Day of Marion has protested the first game played at Mansfield Sunday. Marion people claim that Lank crossed the plate before O'Day was touched out at third, making the third man down. The umpire admitted he didn't see the play and it was referred to the official scorer. He claimed that O'Day was out before the run was scored.

Another of Marion's squeeze plays failed to work in the same game, when with Wilson on third Lusk, signalled he would bunt. Wilson came rushing home, but Lusk hit, and the ball struck Wilson on the leg, knocking him down and putting him out.

Secretary Farrell has decided that Marion has no right to Shortstop Parker, and that that player belongs to Fairmont. W. Va. Parker has gone to the West Virginia town and Price of Connellsville of the Western Penn league has been signed in his place.

Pitcher Binselman of the Portsmouth team, who was loaned to Manager Ransick by Manager Armour of Toledo, has been sent to Lincoln, Neb., on a trade.

Al Schweizer, utility fielder for the St. Louis Browns, is hitting at a fast clip, and his average is .319. He has secured 25 hits and scored 13 runs.

Looks as though Lima and Newark were to fight all season for third place. When Newark wins so does Lima, and when Lima loses then Newark follows suit. Here's hoping that its the Stogie Rollers that start to lose and not the Molders.

Quailey's work yesterday was remarkable and the twirling stuff of the Molders is beginning to be the envy of the other league teams.

IN POLICE COURT

William Smith, a homeless wanderer, charged by Officer Gorman with insulting women last Saturday night, was given his hearing and being found guilty was given $5 and costs and 10 days in jail. Drunks and disorderly arrested by Officers Linke, Callan and Moore were given the small fines.

Seized an Agreement.
The C. of Richard Bryan, 136 Broadway street, charged by John Barr with harboring vicious dog, was tried in police court this morning, and as the two people interested reached an agreement, the case was dismissed. Barr had Bryan arrested, claiming that the dog bit his little Marie Barr, but the testimony showed that the child had teased the dog while it was eating.

Case Continued.
Joe Derner, charged by E. J. father with stealing a gold bracelet and a shirt, and who was to have his case heard last night, will not have his trial until tonight at 7 o'clock.

WILLIAM OF YALE MAKES A HOME RUN BY A SMALL MARGIN.

New York, June 30.—By a score of 9 to 5 Harvard defeated Yale at the Polo grounds, winning the third and decisive game in the baseball series of this year. Harvard had won the commencement game at Cambridge and Yale had won at New Haven.

Williams at third base made a bean- and to superior fielding to Yale's. Two home runs and several brilliant fielding exhibitions enlivened the game, which was witnessed by 10,000 persons, none of whom could have complained of the quality of baseball that was played.

Harvard's victory was due to bat- tling and to superior fielding to Yale's. Williams made a couple of other fine stops during the afternoon, to say nothing of getting into an altercation with an ornamental coacher from Cambridge, during which controversy the Yale man was admonished by the Harvard supporters to quit being "Muggsy" McGraw.

INDIVIDUALISM WINS.

The Conquering Principle In Our Industrial Development.

The Remedy For Capitalistic Corruption is Not to Be Found in Municipal Ownership, but in the Making and Enforcement of Controlling Laws. Business and Politics When Partners Never Make For Progress and Integrity.

By Hon. WALTER A. WEBSTER.

The problem of municipal ownership and of government ownership is coming to the forefront as an issue of the greatest importance to the American people. A feeling of unrest pervades the community. It is the fashion of the day to criticize capital and capitalists. We are called a land of inequality. Our wealthy are designated princes of privilege. It is said that the masses are being despoiled to enrich an aristocracy and that the press is stifled and the government corrupt.

Quasi-public corporations like gas companies, electric light companies, street railway and railroad corporations are particularly under the ban of radical public opinion. Their charges are declared to be excessive and their service poor, while many are supposed to be overcapitalized and by means of false bookkeeping to be making excessive and enormous profits.

Where there is so much smoke there must be some fire. Unquestionably evils do exist and in many instances of an outrageous nature—evils that should be stopped and done away with forever. No sensible man will dispute this. So far so good.

But when it is declared that municipal ownership and government ownership are the only remedies for these afflictions of the body politic, for one, demand proof.

The burden of the proof is on those who desire a change from present conditions to public ownership to prove that we should get better conditions and be served in a safer and more satisfactory manner or else show that the conduct of the business that the city or government wishes to acquire has been so antagonistic and fatal to the public interest that the only feasible remedy is public ownership. If this last position is taken, it should include proof that the regulation will not suffice.

The public in most communities in the United States doesn't have to go into municipal ownership to remedy these evils. To confess inability to choose proper men to represent you. The American people are not going to be enslaved by any combination of capital for any length of time. They have the remedy in the ballot. They may elect a time, legislatures and city councils may be bought, but sooner or later little by little laws are going to be placed upon the statute books that will prevent overcapitalization, that will prevent exorbitant prices being charged, that will curtail enormous profits and make them reasonable and that will compel our great public service corporations to follow a uniform system of accounting and bookkeeping that will throw the searchlight of publicity on the financial operations of these corporations.

We have accomplished much in this direction in Massachusetts. We will accomplish more. To say that we will not is to say that we are incapable of self government.

The industrial and commercial greatness of the United States far exceeds that ever known at any time by any other people in the entire history of the world. Liberty of action and the untrammelled liberty of the individual have made the modern world. Individuality is the one essential to which our civilization and our social progress are owing. When the individual was crushed nations lay prostrate or developed but slowly. When individuality was recognized, civilization grew to manhood. With individuality came originality and invention. Freedom of speech, of thought and action was the mainspring of originality. Thus far we have escaped the tyranny of too much government, and if it can be demonstrated, as it can be unquestionably, that all these great public enterprises were originated, developed and perfected under a state and social condition where the individual was recognized it must be proved that under a state of partial socialism equally good results can take place.

The great public service corporations are the product of industrial evolution and are one of the highest exemplifications of what individual effort can do. They were started many years ago at a time when their success or failure was a matter of doubt. In every case they were started not by cities, states or governments, but by private individuals in their private capacity as individuals, as partners or corporations. They have been gradually developed from small beginnings until they have reached their present size. At first their products were luxuries. Now they are necessities. There is not to be found among the great inventions that have done so much to improve the lot of civilized man a single one that was due to government initiative. Governments never experiment, but if they succeed and are placed upon a paying basis then the government, be it city or state, is willing to buy.

During the long process of our industrial evolution men have been gradually developed who have become technical specialists and who are thoroughly acquainted with all the infinite detail connected with the enterprise. They have in many instances started in humble capacities and come to the top of the ladder by reason of sheer ability and experience. By ingenuity and skill they have managed departments with great economy or in some way introduced improvements that have tended to save money for or to broaden the scope of their company. Their reward has been promotion. Thus we find that in most of our public service corporations the trained men at the head of affairs and their immediate subordinates have given continuous thought to the growth of the business.

When a city goes into municipal ownership, unless she, too, employs trained specialists and careful men with technical and financial ability the enterprise will lag behind.

The men at the head of our great public service corporations are men of extraordinary ability. Their prototypes, however, would not manage these enterprises if the city owned them. Under municipal ownership the officials in these departments would be rewarded under the spoils system or would be promoted by seniority. The experience of all governments proves this. In either event you would not begin to have the capable men directing these concerns that you now have.

Business enterprises requiring financial skill, special knowledge, technical training, hard study and severe application cannot be run by politicians who have none of these attributes, however much we like them personally as men.

Owing to the continual change in politics, the coming in of one party after the other or of one faction after the other, a really good man at the head of a department just commences to have a clear understanding of his duties and to accomplish efficient work when out he goes. Such a state of affairs discourages men from doing their best when they know they will not be rewarded for their just efforts.

The experience of the world has shown that men work hardest when they are working for their own pocket-books, and in private concerns where economy and ingenuity will effect a saving men will work at their best, because such work will mean more money to them in the shape of dividends or a promotion of some sort as a reward for their ingenuity. Under municipal management there would be but little inducement for men to stay up nights scheming to save money for the city, for if the scheme were one that diminished the number of municipal employees its originator would speedily become unpopular, whether the scheme resulted in labor saving machinery or in more efficient management.

It is often stated that municipal ownership is right in theory. This cannot be so unless we consider the earth Utopia and all men automatons. No theory is right unless right in practice. When practice and theory, so called, differ, practice must prevail.

Rather Strong Language.

The city of Cedar Falls owns its own water system. Those favorable to municipal ownership in this and other states have pointed to Cedar Falls in vindication of the socialistic theory of municipal ownership, and yet if a private corporation were giving the city the unwholesome water that we must endure every time the streams get a little above normal it would not be safe for a stockholder in such an enterprise to appear on the streets.

With the high water tax that is exacted there surely can be no excuse for the roly condition of the water, because there ought to be funds enough available to construct a reservoir to make some provision that would obviate the present unwholesome, insanitary condition. The people of the city ought to insist upon an improvement. If there are no funds available, there ought to be no objection to an appropriation sufficiently large to make right the difficulty.

Some of these times an epidemic of typhoid fever will result, and then it will be too late to make complaint. The time to take action is now.—Editorial in Cedar Falls (Ia.) Record.

Comment Is Unnecessary.

To the Honorable the City of Chicago, April 25, 1936.
Gentlemen—The city of Chicago has been in the electric lighting business for about twenty years, yet I have been unable to acquire from the city records exact information as to the municipal lighting plant's value or the cost of the electric lighting which the city does for itself. The records simply show from year to year the cash appropriated and expended for material and labor in the maintenance and operation of the electric lighting plants. No attempt has been made apparently to ascertain the exact cost. The city should know how much its municipally owned and operated utilities are costing and how much it has invested in such undertakings.
Therefore I would respectfully ask your honorable body for authority to employ such expert assistance as may be necessary to acquire accurate information covering the initial cost of the city's electric light plant, the present value of said plant and in detail what it costs the city of Chicago to light its streets with its own electric lighting plant, the results of such inquiry to be laid before your honorable body. Respectfully submitted,
FRED A. FUSSE, Mayor.

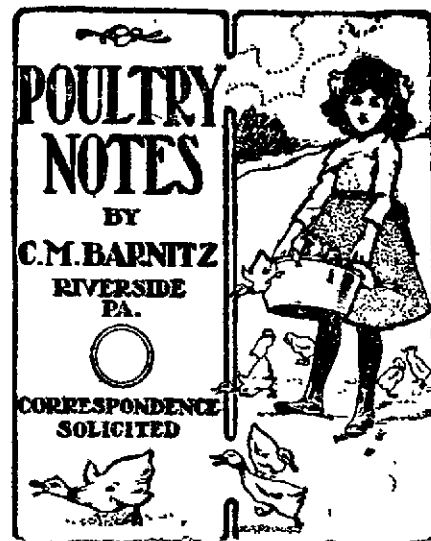

They Kick Just the Same.

On April 1 the price of gas supplied by the municipal plant of Middleboro, Mass., was raised from $2.75 to $3.50 a thousand feet.

PEKIN PARTICULARS.

Why are millions of ducks reared, sold at top notch prices and eaten with great gusto by the millions today when only yesterday flappers were classed with onions, sauerkraut and mutton—some liked them, some didn't? Well, that calico colored waddler people made snoots at because it "tasted fishy" was the puddle duck you skipped stones at in the old mill pond. It feasted on tadpoles, catties, bullfrogs, mullets and waterskippers, and there's as much difference between the flavor and fiber of an American bred celery fed Pekin and a stringy puddle duck as between a Susquehanna mudhole carp and a California brook trout. When you taste Pekin you always yell, "Gimme some more."

Millions of Pekins are bred today that never touch their snow white breasts to the wave. Indeed, the desire to swim is bred out of them. Market ducks are not allowed to bathe because it interferes with fattening, and if allowed a swim it is right before killing, so that their feathers may be washed, as white Pekin feathers sell at 50 cents per pound, and twelve ducks furnish that quantity.

The feathers generally pay for the picking, and some pickers pick eighty ducks a day at 5 cents the duck.

The breeders only are fed boiled fish and allowed to bathe for the sake of fertility.

Ducks lay at night and early dawn, and if allowed out before 8 o'clock they lay in the water, and the poultryman has to duck for eggs all day.

Ducks, like people, are carved into two sections, the useful and ornamental.

The utility are White Pekin (China), White Aylesbury (England), Colored Rouen (France), Black Cayuga (United States), Muscovy (South America), Blue Swedish (Sweden) and Runner (India).

"Tis the White Pekin, imported from China in 1870 and bred to beauty and twenty pounds the pair, that puts the United States at the head of the quack fraternity.

Here are the largest duck ranches in the world, and all Pekin.

"Do Pekins pay?" Listen.

A breeder raises 5,000 ducks and 800 chickens on two acres. It costs 6 to 10 cents per pound to raise a four to six pound duckling in ten weeks, and it sells as high as 40 cents per pound.

Does it pay him? A farmer started with ten Pekins and fifty-five acres of land. He now has 45,000 ducks the year round, owns a $50,000 plant. His three sons own modern dwellings. They all have fat bank accounts, all from raising fat Pekins.

The duck specialists aren't raising yellow back green ducks for their musical qualities, but for greenbacks, and the long green's theirs.

DUCK DON'TS.

Don't mate drakes with over five ducks. Thoroughbreds throw few culls and no decoys.

Don't get scared when the droppings of Pekin pullets get limy. Time for laying and mating.

Don't expect fertile eggs from Pekin pullets less than eight months old. Don't be too fresh, but eggs can't be.

Don't throw out cracked duck eggs. They often hatch, but half tracked people are only a half success.

Don't wash duck eggs. Just sponge them gently. You will rub off the oil and burn coal oil for nit.

Don't run the incubator over 102 degrees the first week, 103 degrees the next two weeks and 104 degrees the last week.

Don't begin to turn eggs till fourth day; change trays and turn eggs twice a day; cool and sprinkle eggs every day after the fourth.

Don't forget to keep the heat down during last week, and put a weight on the safety valve if you get a big hatch.

Don't get scared if Muscovy eggs linger along for five weeks. They're slow stock.

Don't run the brooder over 90 degrees the first two days, 85 degrees the next week and 80 degrees until you gradually taper down to 70 degrees.

AMAZING POSTERS IN CARS.

A City Railway System Tries Moral Suasion on the Public.

It is likely that within a few days there will be a general laugh from passengers in the cars of the Third avenue railway system in New York city because Frederick W. Whitridge, the federal receiver for that system, has had printed and will post in the cars placards pleading with both the conductors and the passengers not to steal from the company and an appeal to the passengers to assist him in keeping the cars clean.

In addition, he has issued a general order to the conductors saying he has received many complaints in regard to their conduct toward passengers and informing them they will be dismissed forthwith if found guilty of incivility and insolence. The placards, however, probably will strike New Yorkers as being exceedingly amusing. They are large, printed on heavy cardboard and will confront all passengers and also all conductors. One is as follows:

"THOU SHALT NOT STEAL."
Every Passenger Who Does Not Pay His Fare—Steals.
Every Conductor Who Does Not Turn in Fares Collected—Steals.
"THOU SHALT NOT STEAL."

The other starts out with a plaintive plea and reads:

HELP US TO KEEP THESE CARS CLEAN.
Do not spit on the floor!
Do not throw rubbish or filth on the floor!
Do not let anybody else do these things!
We wish to please the public!
We ask the public to help us!
Inform us of everything wrong!
Be sure your complaints will be attended to!
Address the RECEIVER,
Sixty-fifth street and Third avenue, City.

In his letter to the conductors Whitridge informs them it is as easy to be civil as to be insolent and "it is the duty of each official and employee of the railway to be more polite to the public than the public is to him."

HUNTING GULLS' EGGS.

Englishwoman Thinks It Fun to Be Lowered Over High Cliffs.

A visitor at a seaside resort in England recently espied on the face of a cliff 400 feet high the figure of a woman. She was seated in a kind of chair arrangement suspended by ropes from above, and she carried a pointed pole to steer herself clear of the jagged rocks, while a canvas bag was slung across her back. The air was full of gulls, evidently much disturbed by her presence, and every now and then one of them would swoop down upon her and strike at her savagely with wing or beak.

The young woman turned out to be a Miss Leslie, who lived in the neighborhood and thought it amusing to have herself lowered over the edge of precipitous cliffs in order that she might collect gulls' eggs for breakfast. "She'll break her neck one of these fine days," the fishermen said, but Miss Leslie declared that there was no occasion for alarm.

"There is very little danger," she said, "provided you keep your head, look out for dislodged falling stones, and see that the ropes are strong and that they are not cut by sharp edges of rock. It is delightful to feel oneself swinging over some lofty precipice, to peep into the cunning places in which the eggs are laid and to hear the gulls screaming around one."

When Miss Leslie has no one to help her in the egg hunts she fastens the ropes to a stake or bush and lowers herself over the cliff. She sometimes takes young birds from the nests and has found that they make interesting pets.

Shoemaker's Novel Building.

On a plot twenty-six inches wide a three story building, the narrowest for its height in the world probably, is being constructed on Center street in Reno, Nev. It will not be used as a convention hall. Neither Mr. Taft nor Mr. Bryan could enter the door to acknowledge his nomination, although Mr. Fairbanks might. It is not intended for a millinery shop for "Merry Widow" hats, and it will not be a saloon, as there is no room to stagger in it. H. C. Gordon, a shoemaker, leased the ground from the bank and built the slim structure. He sleeps on the top floor and cannot turn around on his cot. His narrow bench is on the second floor. Customers slide into his store on the ground floor, and in his show window he displays one at a time a Chicago pair of shoes.

Building Industry Exposition.

An international exposition for art and building industry will be held in St. Petersburg, Russia, from June to October under the direction of the Society of Civil Engineers of Russia. The exhibition will have sections for the display of building materials, carpentry and metal work, sanitary protection, fireproofing materials, electrical apparatus, artistic furnishings, literature and methods of technical instruction.

Washington Shuns Jewelry.

In Washington it is rare nowadays to see a woman wear more than a brooch or a stickpin except on formal occasions. The rage for necklaces and bracelets, earrings and chains seems to have vanished. Baroness Monchour invariably wears either all white or all black for the promenade or calling, and not one ornament is visible except small diamond pins to hold her high collar in place.

YOUNG LAD

AFFLICTED WITH CATARACT, INTERESTS JUVENILE COURT AND WILL BE TREATED.

Complicated Lunacy Case—Sent to Gallipolis Hoospital—Interesting Court Notes.

Some months ago the attention of Probate Judge Bristor was called to a peculiarly sad case, in which Harvey, the little four year old son of Mrs. Rhoda Miles, was the principal character. The child, who is a handsome little fellow, is afflicted with a cataract growing on one of his eyes, and the mother finding herself unable to care for her son, or have him treated for his affliction, begged Judge Bristor to send him to the Children's Home. Now the Judge, who has a big heart, overflowing with sympathy for the afflicted, interested himself in the case, and made arrangements with Dr. Clark Hatch to treat the little fellow's eye. Tuesday Sheriff Redman went to Hanover and got the boy, who had been staying at the home of his grandmother for some time past, and brought him to Newark. Mrs. Mary Swan, the efficient probation officer, then took him to the county jail to see his mother, and the meeting was a very affectionate one. The boy was then taken to the Children's Home, where he will have a nice home, and where he will be given proper treatment by Dr. Hatch.

Lunacy Hearing.

The inquest of lunacy that was commenced in Probate court on Mrs. Laura Heaps last Saturday, was concluded Monday afternoon. The medical experts, Dr. J. P. Harbottle and Dr. H. C. Davis testified that the woman was undoubtedly insane with delusions and that she might become dangerous at any time to herself and four little children. One of her chief delusions was that she was in love with a prominent doctor in Baltimore, Md., and that he loved her, and that they were going to get mutual divorces and get married. Judge Bristor asked her whether, if this doctor in Baltimore would come or write and tell her he did not love her, she would give up the delusion. She said she would. Judge Bristor wrote to the doctor Saturday by special delivery, and an answer was received Monday, telling her plainly that she was suffering from a delusion. The woman evinced the most intense dislike for her husband and father, saying that they were her worst enemies, and that she would rather go to the asylum than return to her husband. The court adjudged her insane and ordered her sent to the State Hospital. The husband, by his attorney, B. G. Smythe, then demanded possession of the insane woman, which the court refused as the husband had before evinced a willingness to have her sent to the asylum and the woman had said she would rather go there than go back to her husband, and the court considered her too dangerous to be trusted with her four little children. Mr. Smythe applied for a writ of habeas corpus to the Common Pleas court, which was granted, and the woman was released from custody. The husband says that he is now going back to Baltimore with his wife and children.

A Sad Case.

Application was made Monday morning to the Probate court by Mrs. Myrtle Yinn of Pataskala, to have her eight year old daughter, Christine Linn sent to the asylum at Gallipolis. The little girl presents a sad and interesting case. She is quite handsome, seems bright in a way, but she is mute and manifests symptoms of not being well balanced. She has had quite a history in a state institution where. Application was first made to have her admitted to the deaf and dumb asylum at Columbus, but the authorities refused her admission because she was not deaf. Application was then made to have her admitted to the institution for feeble minded at Columbus, and she was admitted to that institution and kept there for three months, when it was discovered she was an epileptic. Accordingly she was sent home again, and application was made by Judge Bristor Monday to have her admitted to the epileptic asylum at Gallipolis.

Juvenile Court.

The cases of William Haynesworth and Leslie Owens, charged by Mrs. Sarah Hathaway with stoning a house were transferred from Mayor Atherton's court Monday to the Juvenile court. There was also a charge of train riding against the same boys. There was also a third boy implicated in the matter, but his age placed him beyond the jurisdiction of the Juvenile court, and he was tried by Mayor Atherton and sentenced to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster. The other boys were put under a suspended sentence to the same place by Judge Bristor.

Increase of June Brides.

The records of the Probate court show that during the present month of June there were 47 marriage licenses issued against 45 during the same month last year, being a net increase of two licenses issued in June of this year. This is to say the least, gratulation to those who are bawling the frequency of divorce, and will show that love and matrimony are still doing business at the old stand.

Paying Out of the Tax Pocket.

When the municipality of Kingston, Canada, took over the works of the Kingston Gas Light company for operation on municipal account the selling rate was put at $1 per 1,000 cubic feet, a reduction of 50 cents from the rate that ruled when the plant was owned by ordinary capitalists. The date of the take over was July 1, 1907. Up to the 1st of April, 1936, it is figured that the workmen behind in its charges $3,670, with the prospect that the total for the year will be close to $4,000. The output there will amount to not over 12,000,000 cubic feet for the twelvemonth—American Gas Light Journal.

When allowance is made for lost taxes and depreciation Kingston will find that its gas has cost more than the $1.50 the company charged. It will have to pay the amount in excess of $1 out of another pocket.

Scores of Newark Readers are Learning the Duty of the Kidneys.

To filter the blood is the kidneys' duty. When they fail to do this the kidneys are sick. Backache and many kidney ills follow;

Urinary trouble, diabetes. Doan's Kidney Pills cure them all. Newark people endorse our claim.

Harley Speaks, 238 Boylston avenue, Newark, Ohio, says: "I was considerably annoyed from rheumatism and acute pains across my loins had made every movement painful. My kidneys also caused me much trouble being too frequent in action and though I used various remedies, I obtained only slight relief. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention. I procured a box at Crayton's drug store and the pains in my back disappeared, my kidneys were invigorated and I felt much better in every way. I have had a return of the trouble since and I am always glad to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills whenever an opportunity presents itself."

A Talk on Olive Oil

SOME INSIDE FACTS, NOT GENERALLY KNOWN, BUT INTERESTING. "PURE" is usually supposed to describe the highest quality of OLIVE OIL, but such is by no means always true. Without exception, the oil imported here is the second, and more often the third pressing—which though pure, is very much inferior to the first expressed.
The best article obtainable in this market is the California product—THE SYLVAR BRAND. This oil is obtained entirely from the first pressing of the fruit and is not only strictly pure, but of the very highest MEDICINAL quality, and is also entirely palatable. We supply this article at the prices usually charged for ordinary grades, and will be pleased to have our friends compare it with any other product.

Regarding the order of the Board of Public Service to the Ohio Electric Railway company, that streets be sprinkled along the right of way and tracks of the company within the city limits, Mr. Taylor of the B. P. S. reported that the company would begin sprinkling as soon as the water could be secured, which will probably be next week.

The street committee reported favoring the removal of the large cotton wood tree on South Fourth street, which annoys the residents of the neighborhood.

A protest from F. M. and Lorena O'Hara, owning property on the corner of Fourth and Moulle streets, was referred to the city solicitor. The owners of this property protest against assessment for the Moulle street sewer on the claim that they are already under assessment for the North Fourth street sewer.

A petition asking for the vacating of an alley near Tenth and Hoover streets was received and filed, and will receive later attention.

Under the head of ordinances on third reading came just one—Fulton's anti-smoking ordinance, which places Sergeant-at-Arms Tatter's pipe of peace on the same level with a spectator's chew of tobacco and makes such an offense in the council chamber while the body is in session punishable by a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $500. The ordinance was passed in spite of the fact that Members Kusters and Flohr voted against it and Member Orr took the tactful turn of not voting at all.

An ordinance, by Stare, amending certain assessments and ordinances, was read and referred to the city committee.

Two amendments to resolutions by Mr. Taylor, were placed on their second and third readings and passed under a suspension of rules.

Only provided for the construction of a cement walk in front of the property of Belle Baker Hamlett, on North Park Place, and the other provided for a cement walk in front of the residence of Mary A. and Joseph T. Soran property on North Park Place.
